Chest Canvassers Begin Campaign For $2,100 Goal

After a peppy "Kick-off Dinner" in San Jose Tuesday which opened the annual Community Chest campaign in the county, Campbell workers for the local Community council buckled down to work Wednesday morning on their ten-day task of obtaining $2100 for relief work.

W. R. Coupland, vice-president of the local organization and campaign manager of the drive, and his able assistants are canvassing Campbell and the surrounding community. Workers in the outside districts are Mrs. Archie Keesling, in charge of the Cambrian district; Wilbur Mitchell, in charge of the San Tomas district; William Wiesendanger, directing the Moreland district drive; Rev. W. H. Lloyd, Meridian and Lloyd Gardner, George Husted and George Parso in Hamilton.

Roy G. Archibald is president of the Campbell Community Council for the year 1932-33. Other officers are Mr. Coupland, vice-president; Mrs. Gordon Ainsley, recording secretary; G. E. Farley, financial secretary; Walter Stray, Mrs. Marion Cox, Mrs. Harry Smith, Carl Field, Ralph Hyde, S. N. Hedegard, and C. H. Whitman, directors.

Of the $2100 to be raised, $1400 will be retained for local use and the remainder sent to the county Chest for use in county relief organizations. The money used locally will be spent by the Campbell Relief society.

During the 1932 season $1000 was budgeted to the relief society and demands upon them were so heavy that their present balance is barely sufficient for the remainder of the year. Thus directors of the local organization felt that at least $1400 would be needed for relief work during 1933, since conditions have not improved locally.

During 1932 the relief society spent about $350 on school lunches and other assistance to hungry children. Over 300 persons were assisted through periods of unemployment by the committee. In charge of the work were Mrs. W. I. Merrill, Mrs. A. D. Rice and C. H. Whitman.

Roy G. Archibald, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Stray, and the Rev. Joseph H. Bennett were present at the Community Chest "Kick-off Dinner" Tuesday night in San Jose.

MUMMA RECEIVES SEVERE INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Harold Mumma, son of Mrs. and Mrs. M. E. Mumma of Virginia avenue, is recovering from severe injuries received in Los Angeles when a swiftly driven car struck his machine.

Mr. Mumma suffered a tremendous blow on the side of his head which caused a concussion of the brain. He was also quite painfully bruised.

Mrs. Harry Fore, the young man's aunt with whom he is staying, reports that witnesses of the accident state that the other motorist was entirely to blame.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Keeseman and children are moving this week to Napa county.

Wright, Jones Talk On Amendments At Mass Meeting

T. M. Wright and Senator Herbert C. Jones will appear at a mass meeting for Campbell citizens next Thursday night, Oct. 27, in the grammar school auditorium, to explain the 20 amendments which voters will vote upon in November.

The public is earnestly urged to attend this meeting which is sponsored by the local Kiwanis club. Mr. Wright and Mr. Jones will give the arguments both for and against the proposed amendments, in the most impartial manner possible.

Rebekahs Give Hallowe'en Social Tuesday Evening

A jolly Hallowe'en party was enjoyed by members of the Ada Rebekah lodge at their regular meeting Tuesday night. Mrs. A. B. Covey, Mrs. J. H. Bachman, and Mrs. Mary Brown were the committee in charge of the affair.

Several picturesque dances were presented by pupils of Miss Ruth Adele Roberts as part of the evening's program. Dorothy Penhall gave a toe dance. Jane Lee Hopkins appeared in a French maid dance. Elizabeth Howe gave a piano solo. Miss Hopkins and Miss Penhall appeared together in a ballroom waltz.

A description of travels in Palestine was given by Dr. Charles Breuer.

Typically Hallowe'en refreshments of pumpkin pie and coffee were served to the lodge members and their guests in the banquet hall. Hallowe'en decorations brightened the affair.

Plans were made at the regular business meeting for the initiation meeting scheduled for Nov. 1. In charge that night will be Mrs. D. A. McQueen, Miss Josephine La Barbara, Mrs. Anna Marie Wingard, Mrs. Jessie Silberbauer, Harry Silver and Thomas Phillips.

Greco Directs Local Cannery; Packs Tomatoes, Artichokes

Tomato juice of unusually delicious flavor, tomatoes packed in a little more than an hour after leaving the ranches, and a unique artichoke pulp are among the products of the Bottled Pure Juice company, a new local cannery owned and operated by Anthony Greco on Union avenue.

More than a dozen men and women were employed by Mr. Greco during the six week's summer season and a large pack of tomatoes, tomato juice and artichokes was put up.

Valuable indeed is the artichoke pulp produced by the cannery. The points and hard parts of the artichoke are slashed off by the workers, the vegetables are cooked, and the resulting pulp is a most palatable delicacy, now being sold by Mr. Greco in gallon cans to manufacturers, hotels and restaurants.

"This pulp is a new product very valuable for the vitamins it contains and is noteworthy for the fact that when cooked with starch it neutralizes the starch, thus making a food suitable for persons on a starchless diet, such as diabetes cases," Mr. Greco explains.

Registered Voters Physically Disabled May Vote at Home

Registered voters unable to go to the polls because of physical disability may still use their franchise privilege, according to a recent law enacted by the state legislature in accordance with an amendment to the constitution voted by the people.

Many questions have been asked at recent elections regarding the method which stay-at-homes must use, in order to vote. To answer them this law is quoted, in briefer form:

Absent Voter—How May Vote at General Election; 1357, (a)—Any duly registered voter, who expects to be absent from his election precinct, or is unable to vote there in by reason of physical disability on the day on which any election is conducted throughout the country, may procure a ballot of his election precinct from the county clerk or registrar of voters of the county, or city and county, and cast said ballot upon complying with these provisions.

(b) Not more than twenty days nor less than five days before the election any such voter may make his application in writing to the county clerk or registrar of voters of the county, or city and county.

(c) When the application is received the signature on it will be compared with the signature upon the original affidavit of registration and if the signature appears the same the county clerk will deliver to the applicant an official ballot, an identification envelope and a return envelope, and a small rubber stamp and stamp pad for making the ballot.

(d) All the supplies mentioned are prepared and furnished by the county clerk or registrar of voters of the county and no charges shall be made for any of the services rendered to the voter.

The duty of the voter, 1359, (b)—The voting should be done in the presence of the county clerk, the registrar of voters, or any notary

P.T.A. Members Extol Social Value Of Student Dances

The excellent social training given high school students at their student body dances was praised by parents and teachers attending the Campbell high school P. T. A. meeting Tuesday night.

Student body dances were begun last year, according to Miss Ruby Howes, physical education teacher, and they were successfully maintained on a refined level. Chaperonage was careful and tickets were allotted only to bonafide high school students and their guests.

R. E. Noddin, physical education teacher, answered a question of Mrs. J. W. Knowles by stating that students welcomed the attendance of their parents at their social affairs. Mrs. Robert Lear described the enjoyment of parents who attended dances.

The institution of noon dances, to be given every Tuesday after the first Thursday, was announced by Mrs. Lillian Rae, dean of girls.

A dance orchestra made up of high school students and playing free of charge will function at all student body dances, according to A. A. Thielke, music instructor.

An orchestra under the charge of Mr. Thielke entertained the parents and teachers Tuesday night. They played "La Golondrina" and "The Dance of the Rose Maidens" by Edmund Brahm. Students who played were Miss Olga Brydon, Clifton Crothers, Hugh Cramer, Miss Mildred Pyle, Miss Mona Keesling, Jean Lear, Miss Elizabeth Mumma, and Miss Dorothy Watson.

Participation in the Santa Clara county Federated Council of the P. T. A. was voted by the members of the P. T. A. and Mrs. Lear, president of the local organization, was elected delegate to the first meeting to be held in Saratoga.

A "Girls' Jinx" to be held by the students Nov. 18 was announced by Miss Ruby Howes and all parents were invited.

That seeds should be purchased by C. E. York and his committee and given to needy students for gardens if it was found advisable was decided by the parents and teachers Tuesday night.

The next meeting of the P. T. A. will be held Nov. 15 in Miss Claribel Boesch's room at the high school and Mrs. Lyle DeWitt of Palo Alto will speak, Mrs. Lear announced.

Community singing, led by Mrs. Fred Long, and delicious refreshments concluded Tuesday's meeting.

Shadle Conducts Rally Friday; J. O. Hayes Speaks

Challenging his audience to vote for Herbert Hoover because of the president's proven courage, Chester Rowell, noted political writer and editor, delivered a spirited address at the Republican rally Friday night in the grammar school auditorium.

"We have passed through a great financial crisis. But the stress is not yet over, and more crises will occur," Mr. Rowell declared. "We need a leader with courage enough to stand for great economies. There will be necessary a man brave enough to deny demands, a man strong enough to refuse wildcat schemes."

"We now have a president with tested courage to do that. Shall we put in his place a candidate for the presidency who, if he has the courage hasn't had it tested, and a vice-president who has been tested and hasn't it?"

Severely did the speaker criticize what he termed the "Hopi Indian mind", which trusts only the magician who has good luck.

"Persons with such a mind hold Hoover responsible, not for the fact that he guided us through a storm, but for the fact that there was a storm. He who thinks thus is deficient in imagination for nothing as big as the depression could be caused by anything less than a worldwide cataclysm."

"When we found ourselves in that great disturbance Hoover proved himself a good captain. Now no captain can calm a storm, but a captain can steer his ship. Of course the steering can't be (Continued on Page 5)

Your Telephone comes from Three quarters of the world's supply of nickel comes from Sudbury, Province of Ontario, Canada. Most of the remaining one-quarter is mined on the island of New Caledonia, east of Australia.

Nickel plating is used to protect many forms of telephone equipment from rust and tarnish and to improve its appearance. An alloy containing nickel forms the springs of many types of telephone apparatus.

Nickel is one of the components of the German silver wire used in coils which protect central office equipment from injury by stray high voltage currents.

Permalloy, an alloy of nickel and iron developed by Bell System engineers, is employed in the "loading coils" used to improve the transmission of long distance telephone circuits. Wrappings of permalloy tape perform a similar function in "loading" a new type of transoceanic telegraph cable. Another alloy, permivar, also containing nickel, will be used similarly for "loading" a proposed transatlantic telephone cable.

Some tomato juice manufacturers use a harmonizing process to keep the juice from separating from the pulp, but this process destroys the vitamin content and injures the flavor, Mr. Greco reports.

The canning plant in which Mr. Greco and his staff do their work is equipped in modern style. A receiving room contains large drums where the tomatoes are washed after they have been sorted. In the canning room women peel and can the vegetable at a long white enamel table. Large containers in which the cans are exhausted, a capping machine, and cooking kettles complete the arrangements in the cooking room. A cool, dark

Youthful Strength

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute.

L. S. (State Official; 60 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete for previous 5 years. Blood pressure too high. Given 2 Titus-Pearls 3 times a day. 2 weeks later the medical report on this man was:—General health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. S. reported again, this time to say that all weariness and exhaustion had gone; he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 60 years of age he had regained the physical power and virility that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! To-day! In 2 weeks time you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash registered or money-order) for 2 weeks treatment. C. O. D. Orders accepted. Write for booklet.

"We are particularly proud of our canned tomatoes," Mr. Greco explains. "I have had much experience in canneries and have observed that generally when tomatoes are placed on pans for distribution among the women workers the ladies are likely to ignore the poorer tomatoes until these lose their freshness. By our method each woman peeling tomatoes hands them immediately to another woman who cans them in standard and solid pack cans. No tomato stands long and the entire process, from truck to cooling room, takes about 90 minutes."

Mr. Greco has about 22 years of cannery experience, having been connected with the Greco canning company, San Jose, and with the Alber cannery, also of San Jose.

ON DODGING ISSUES

Governor Roosevelt in some of his recent speeches has been charging the Republican administration with lacking a program and with dodging issues. But it would occur to the ordinary observer that if there has been any issue-dodging in this campaign up to date it has been done by the good Governor himself. For instance, there is the tariff. Governor Roosevelt first came out for the platform pledge of a competitive tariff for revenue, but he has failed up to this time to say just what that means.

In a recent statement warning against tampering with the doctrine of protection to American industry, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, declared that against an average wage last year of 60 cents an hour in the United States, the rate was only 12 cents in France, nine cents in Italy and seven cents in Japan. As yet Governor Roosevelt has failed to state whether he wants our workers to compete against the 12 cent Frenchman, the nine cent Italian, or the seven cent an hour Japanese. A little information on the subject might be enlightening, to say the least.

Governor Roosevelt also declared that the tariff fails to protect the farmer. Evidently he was thinking only of wheat and knows nothing about the tariff on other farm products, dairy products, meats and so on. If Governor Roosevelt does not believe these schedules protect our farmers let him inquire of the agriculturists and livestock raisers, to say nothing of the dairying interests in Canada, Argentina and Australia.

The Governor talks about how our tariff has caused reprisals on the part of Canada and hints that he will cure this by a tariff agreement between the two nations.

Now in making a treaty with Canada what commodities will the Canadians want on the free list? Why, dairy products, grain and other farm products. Governor Roosevelt would do farmers of the United States little good and much harm by an attempt to negotiate reciprocity with Canada.

In his speeches through the west Governor Roosevelt repeatedly refused to state, when asked the question, how he stood on the matter of tariffs on meats, petroleum, copper and other products in which the west is interested. Now why? Is it that he doesn't know what he would do, or that he has promised his friends in the east one thing and his friends in the west another?

There are other matters in which Governor Roosevelt has dodged issues and failed to be specific. He has told the farmers what is the matter with them, but not how he will cure them. He wants to guarantee higher prices without encouraging greater production; to sell our surplus farm products to Europe at less than the world price without dumping, and doubtless to raise the price of wheat in the country and reduce the price of flour in the city.

When it comes to dodging issues, and generalizing, nobody has it on the head of the Democratic national ticket.

GIVE WHAT YOU CAN

On Tuesday of this week Community Chest workers started a ten-day solicitation of funds for the coming year's relief work. With conditions in the worst shape in many years, the need of funds with which to carry on relief work among the needy is tremendous. Considerably more money will be needed this year than last. Cash reserves, on which many people rode the tidal wave of depression for the first year and a half of its duration, have in many cases dwindled to the vanishing point, and people who formerly were able to give handsomely will this year not only be unable to contribute, but will, in many instances, themselves become recipients of Community Chest relief.

It is therefore up to the rest of us to make up the difference. It will be hard going, but it's something that must be done. When you are called upon, give what you can. If enough of us do that the drive is sure to go over the top.

WHAT IS THE ANSWER

A few reasons why government should keep out of business:

1. Because government in business opens the flood gates of public expenditures at the taxpayers' expense; many of the expenditures being for special services to a limited number of persons from which services the general taxpayer, who must pay for them, can derive no benefit.

2. It creates new classes of political agencies and gives them unlimited power to incur debts, levy taxes and spend public money.

3. It discourages industry and prevents the investment of private capital in new enterprises because a private citizen cannot compete with tax-free, government-owned projects.

4. It invites the worst kind of political gerymandering for promotional schemes at public expense.

5. Each time the government goes into business, it removes taxable property from the tax rolls and loads the taxes thus lost onto remaining taxable property, plus additional taxes for new government ventures into the field of industry.

The question of the government in business in competition with its private citizens should be considered from the standpoint of the principle involved, rather than from the interest of any particular line of business. The business itself is incidental to the principle. If we subscribe to the theory that public ownership is good for any business, even in a small degree, we should be honest enough to go all the way and sanction complete public ownership and control of the means of production and distribution. We should not single out one line of business to stand the brunt of such unfair and killing competition.

Government competition might better apply to the local meat market, grocery store, or clothing store, than to ocean shipping, insurance, public utilities, railroads and banking, for it is much more important that the average family get the first three items at cost than it is that they get the latter items at cost.

IS A RAILROAD A GOOD CITIZEN?

One of the best examples of what a railroad means to any community is given in the following editorial from the Williston, North Dakota, Herald:

"The Great Northern sent a check Monday for its taxes. It was for $198,487. It is the biggest check for taxes annually received. It may always be depended upon. The Great Northern is never a delinquent taxpayer. Most of us never think of it as a citizen of this community. Few of us realize, until the matter is called to our attention, as in this case, what a part it has in keeping things going hereabouts. It helps pay for our schools, roads and bridges, and takes care of our needy. It discharges all the duties of citizenship on the paying end with little complaint.

"We can afford to be most patient with our railroads. They face conditions of change that are not yet fully or clearly developed. In them is invested a lot of the money of plain everyday people.

A SCIENCE—A CRAFT—AND AN ART

In the pioneer days, many communities had laws requiring everyone to keep buckets filled with water in their homes, as a defense against fire. Today almost every progressive community, large or small, has an up-to-date, well-equipped fire department, with a trained personnel and the best of apparatus.

These two methods of fire protection are very different. But both stemmed from the same attitude of mind. Both arise from the necessity of protecting lives and property from the ever-present danger of fire.

The fire buckets were followed by crude hand pumps. Then came the steamer, and at last the motor-propelled fire engine of today. The science of fire control is a genuine science, that has gradually been perfected through the hundreds of years of trial and error, success and failure—and ceaseless experiment.

The building of first class, standard apparatus has been a fine art as well as a difficult craft. Most of us think of a fire engine as the by-product of the manufacture of trucks. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Apparatus that is made that way often proves a very untrustworthy weapon in the war against fire, failing when most it is needed. In the case of the standard makers, every part that goes into the complete engine is designed and built with but one thought in mind—stamina and uninterrupted service in fighting fire.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

The California farm, recognized throughout the agricultural world for its high efficiency, has achieved a new record in modernizing farming.

It leads the entire United States in the adaption of electric energy to farm development and improvement of farm-home living conditions, according to a survey just completed by the American Farm Bureau federation.

California, the survey discloses, tops the list of states having the most farms served by electric light and power companies, boasting a list of 86,548 electrified farms or 63.8 per cent of the total number of farms in the state.

New York, California's closest competitor in rural electrification, has 51,439 farms using electric power, while Ohio ranks third with 45,730 electrified farms.

In the nation at large, according to the survey, there are 698,786 electrified farms, as compared with 177,561 in 1923, when the farm bureau made its original survey of rural electrification.

The widespread use of electric energy in California farming, while it indicates the progressiveness of the California farmer, also emphasizes the vital importance to the agricultural industry of reasonable rates. Hydro-electric power is becoming an increasingly large item in the farmer's operating costs—and an item which has failed to come down in proportion to general price declines.

It is significant, in this regard, that although 1,395 additional California farms were electrified in '31 there was a decline, during the first few months of this year, of 323 farms using electric power. Depression prices for farm products and pre-depression rates for electrical power undoubtedly had some bearing on the change.

Still another fact, which is emphasized by the survey, is that the California farmer, as a result of his increased use of electricity, is paying an increased share of the cost of state government, for the power companies and other public utilities form the backbone of the state tax structure. Nor can there be any denial that the utilities pass along their tax payments to their consumer.

The success, or failure, of California farm organizations in their fight for economy in state government is quite likely to be reflected in future power rates, which makes it the more imperative that drastic retrenchment be accomplished at the next session of the legislature.

California farmers, and California taxpayers generally, cannot afford to be hoodwinked any longer by the age-old alibi for too generous state expenditures that "the corporations pay state taxes."

In some instances, where it is impossible to pass the tax along, the corporations undoubtedly do pay state taxes, but in many instances they have become more tax collectors than taxpayers.

The farmer pays toward the upkeep of state government every time he turns on his electric lights, uses his telephone, or buys a railroad ticket, and he pays heavily in shipping charges when his produce is taken to market, whether railroad or truck.

State government expenditures, exclusive of funds apportioned to local government units, have increased 273.6 per cent during the last 15 years, while population has increased but 90 per cent. And local expenditures—city and county—have soared 277.5 per cent during the same period.

BOOKS

Spears Against Us—Cecil Roberts; Appleton and company, 1932.

High in the Austrian Tyrol lived Karl and Paula and Hugo and Anna, children of a great nobleman. Each summer to their mountain fastness came Ian and Jane Crawley, English aristocrats. Between the two families sprang up a great friendship.

The six bronzed, lithe youngsters frolicked together, swimming, climbing, and skiing in the winter time. But eventually they fell in love. It seemed that the Crawleys and the Edelsteins would become inextricably intermingled.

Suddenly one summer day came the news that the Austrian archduke was murdered. Into the whirlwind of war which sprang up were swept the helpless youths. Ian in the British army and Karl in the Austrian must call each other enemies.

Tumult and disorder reigned in the once peaceful Tyrolean land.

The book has passages of vivid description; the reader almost begins to breathe deeply of the rarified mountain air, as he reads of snowy peaks and mountain storms.

Like gods out of a Greek myth are the youthful characters. Their tall blondness, their lithe swiftness, capture the reader's imagination. And with it all they are human, enduring human rages, sorrows and joys.

The novel boasts one extremely good point, the element of contrast. Humor, tragedy, and romance are to be discovered.

And most important, the author proves the stark brutality of war.

The Boston Cooking School Cook Book—Fannie Merritt Farmer; 1930 edition.

Since 1896 Fannie Farmer's scientific cook book has been to housewives what Hoyle is to card players, the authority. With it as right-hand man the young bride may become an expert and the older homemaker may embellish her accomplishments.

This very latest edition of the book is completely revised with modern recipes. It includes, moreover, recipes which may be used for special diets. Furthermore it can be a boon to the weighty worrier for it contains pages and pages of caloric values.

The entire food problem of the housewife is covered by this encyclopediac work. Everything from coffee to candy, and through the range of breads, cakes, meats, and salads, is explained and every recipe is tested and accurate.

Are you frowning over what to have for dinner? Unfasten your frown and smile over Fannie Farmer's latest, illustrated edition.

Bright Skin—Julia Peterkin; Bobbs-Merrill company, 1932.

Mrs. Peterkin, who won the Pulitzer prize in 1926, has not allowed the quality of her writing to deteriorate in her latest novel of negro life.

In describing the lives of Blue, the young negro, and Cricket, the little half breed "bright skin," she has touched on a theme which is always poignant and dramatic. White blood works strange changes in negro character. Blue who loves Cricket so dearly is fascinated by her delicate, "star-lily" self. But little Cricket is ever the will'o'wisp.

The book is fascinating for its study of negro life, traditions, and dialect.

Senator H. Jones Explains Measures At Club Meeting

The community room at the library was well filled Monday afternoon with members of the Country Woman's club and guests, who had assembled to hear State Senator Herbert Jones explain the amendments for which the citizens of the state will be called upon to vote in November.

A wealth of attractively arranged baskets and jars of flowers and sprays of colored berries made a bower of the room.

The program, as arranged by the committee, Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, Mrs. Dan W. Clark, and Mrs. Mark E. Purmort, was opened with the salute to the flag and the singing of America. Mrs. Herbert Shadle led the singing, with Mrs. George S. Robson at the piano.

The discussion of the amendments by Senator Jones was very clear and enlightening and the ladies were appreciative of the sacrifice of time which Mr. Jones made in coming out to address them. He opened his talk with a comparison of the number of amendments made to the federal constitution, and to our state constitution, eliminating the Bill of Rights, which is really a part of the federal document. Amendments to the federal constitution average one in 20 years, and to the state one in 20 days. This clearly shows the need of a new state constitution, under which the departments can function without so many changes.

Mr. Jones characterized No. 1 as premature legislation. If our present enforcement law, known as the Wright Act, should be repealed, he said, while the 18th amendment is still a part of the national constitution, we would be issuing an invitation for "bigger and better" bootleggers, as the state and local officers could do nothing to help enforce the law.

No. 2, the Senator explained, does not define a saloon, and would take all power from a community to determine its own liquor status. In preprohibition times a locality had the right of local option, which this statute would deny if passed. Other measures were explained with equal clarity. Some of them are entirely local, but the legislature has no power to act upon them.

A business session preceded the program, at which announcement was again made of the card party to be held at We and Our Neighbors' clubhouse Nov. 12 under the auspices of the County Federation of Women's Clubs for the benefit of the student loan fund. Several of the ladies volunteered to furnish

The rally party of the Junior Intermediate group of the C. E. of the Congregational church took place in the church parlors last Friday evening. The social committee under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Merriman arranged a wonderful evening. Over 40 attended and fun and laughter was everywhere. This Junior Intermediate group is very promising this year and many happy Sunday evenings are looked for under the guidance of the leader, Miss Merriman.

done calmly or comfortably. But if out of that storm he comes headed safely for the harbor he's a good captain."

America's recovery from the stock market crisis was delayed by the onslaught of a second depression resulting from world wide events, Mr. Rowell pointed out. First, the collapse of the Bank of Austria, and second, the instability of German finances caused trouble in the United States. Hoover's prompt declaration of a German moratorium is believed to have saved international financial structures.

When England went off the gold standard and investors abroad began a drive on American dollars, United States banks were in a shaky condition, the San Francisco publicist asserted. If Hoover had not come efficiently to the rescue financial disaster would have faced the United States. As it was, bank depositors' money was saved in most cases.

Work of the government at Washington during the depression was praised by Mr. Rowell. Forces have been mobilized by the millions, Mr. Rowell showed, to restore business, to make jobs, to feed the hungry. Credit of business is now good and the upturn of commodities has begun.

Great applause greeted Mr. Rowell's remark that "it is for us to decide whether we will work out the crisis under the leadership which began this recovery or under leadership which if left to itself would have prevented some of this recovery."

"When the depression was at its lowest and Congress in chaos, Hoover alone was coolly courageous. Herbert Hoover stood single handed against wild proposals for relief and he alone saved the nation from itself in that conflagration," declared Mr. Rowell enthusiastically.

Hoover's courage, in refusing the schemes to pay the bonus in "printing press money," and in refusing to back the five billion dollar bond issue to build unnecessary buildings, saved the nation from dangerous hysteria and national bankruptcy, the publicist declared.

"We are facing a choice as important as that faced by voters when Lincoln was reelected," Mr. Rowell concluded. "It is a crisis hard to see, but a crisis none the less. Our children will judge us by how we vote now. Let us hope that we stand the judgment of posterity."

H. M. Shadle, chairman of the local Hoover club, presided at the meeting Friday. He and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy were in charge of arrangements.

J. O. Hayes, editor of the San Jose Mercury Herald, introduced Mr. Rowell.

Stephen Merrill, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Johns, sang "The Builders," by Cadman, and Henley's "Invictus."

Miss Geraldine Lloyd, Miss Barbara Mitchell, and Miss Dorothy Penhall, pupils of Miss Ruth Adele Roberts, performed graceful dances.

Mrs. L. T. Smith, president of the Santa Clara county women's Hoover club, addressed the audience, urging each person to win one new vote for Hoover.

Mrs. Edith Vanderwater of Long Beach, national Republican committeeman from California, declared that "The Democrats can't fool the women."

Don't fail us now--

As a citizen of this community you should take the time to acquaint yourself with the activities of the Community Chest. During the last year we have been able to stretch our dollars until they have performed services beyond our highest expectations.

While the tax-supported County Charities Department has cared for the needs of families who qualify for relief under the state law, which demands three years residence, there remain many hundreds of families to whom aid is not available. The Community Chest relief agencies are their one hope for aid.

With the winter upon us that threatens to cause needs greater than at any time in our experience we need your help again. Your immediate, generous and sacrificial response will be appreciated by the thousand volunteer workers who have already set forth on the annual campaign and by the thousands whose lives will be enriched by your gift.

Epworth League Play Entertains Audience Sunday

A worthwhile lesson and much entertainment was given to members and friends of the Methodist church when the Epworth League gave the play, "Thanksgiving Ann"
Sunday night.

Alberta Lantz, playing "Thanksgiving Ann," the cheery humorous darky cook, gave a vigorous and amusing interpretation of her role.
Hugh Cramer, as her young son, was a lively character, winning his audience's approval.

Phillip Farley, playing Mr. Allen, the father of the family, played his part in a capable and efficient fashion. Norman McVey, the Rev. Mr. Jones, talked as if he were to the clergy born. Caroline Clay, who substituted for her sister,
Irene Clay, at very short notice, was much praised for her quick-witted rendition of the part of Mrs. Allen.

Particularly appealing were Donald and Carol Lantz, who acted as children of the Allen family.

Preaching in quite graphic fashion the lesson of stewardship and the value of giving freely in money and time to all worthwhile organizations, the play was a real addition to the Sunday night service.

However, Mrs. Keesling's passenger suffered only painful bruisees. Little Betty Keesling's arm muscles and leg were injured and bruises on his hip. David Keesling,

Mrs. Keesling, Olga Brydon, Bob Brydon, and Joe Bloom were also scratched up.
